

Korwith Khuntikul

Hello, I'm Korwith

I was a digital marketer before my interest in software development grew into my passion. Currently, I'm a self-tough web designer who wants to expand a territory to backend development in order to close the loop of a full-stack web development. My first step to achieve my goal is to join Generation Thailand where I can fill the gap with the required skill set. I'm confident that with my digital marketing background plus self-tough web designing plus the full-stack development skill I learn from Generation Thailand will be a great addition to your company.
